“Once in a
Blue Moon”

“Once in a Blue Moon”

New Zealand is the setting for this award winning 2009 DVD. What happens when mice get a banner year of seeds to feed on? Those mice aren't rabbits, but their population explodes to a point of igniting a mass migration. They have to cross moving waters and New Zealand's streams and rivers are home to beastly trout that don't get that way being a vegan!

Gorgeous videography both above and below the water punctuates an unbelievable natural occurrence that is the dream of any angler that has ever caught a fish. This isn't just a big fish fishing video by any stretch of the imagination. You will be asking for more after the 45 minutes are up. New Zealand is a spectacular setting for this amazing story of what can happen in nature when certain separate events converge.

Tod Suttle will be doing a fly tying demo from 6:00 – 7:00; pizza and beverages will be served. We will have Joe Margiotta of the Kern River Fly Shop at our May 13th meeting.
